DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 28-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Uzoh et al. (Uzoh), U.S. Patent 6,465,376 in view of Chidambarao et al. (Chidambarao), U.S. Patent 6,417,572.

Uzoh discloses the claimed damascene interconnect formed by a trench-filling process of electroplating copper having including the range of grain size as claimed (see claims 1-12). The patent further discloses the approximate temperature, i.e., room temperature (see col. 4, lines 12-20).

The Uzoh patent does disclose that the electrical resistance is caused by voids in the interconnection, however, it does not teach the decrease in electrical resistance. The Chidambarao patent is cited to show the relationship between the electrical resistance and the grain size as it relates to the voids in the interconnection (see col. 3, line 15 to col. 4, line 60).

Therefore, the invention as a whole would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the disclosure of the Uzoh patent in view of the teachings of the Chidambarao patent, because the Chidambarao reference teaches that voids in the interconnection would be prevented by the grain size of the conducting metal to provide an electrically continuous path.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 28-30 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
